1 (Case called)

2 THE COURT: Paul Greenwood?

3 I will hear anything you want to tell me about 4 sentence and I will hear anything your lawyer wants to tell me 5 about sentence. I have read all of the material that you've 6 given me.

7 First, let me ask you, have you read the revised 8 presentence report?

9 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, I have.

10 THE COURT: Is there any error in it that you would 11 like to bring to my attention?

12 MR. HAFETZ: Your Honor, if I may, there is not.

13 THE COURT: Very well. Then I will hear anything you 14 want to tell me and anything your lawyer wants to tell me in 15 connection with sentence.

16 MR. HAFETZ: Your Honor, if it's okay, I would like to 17 speak first and then Mr. Greenwood has a short statement.

18 THE COURT: Very well.

19 MR. HAFETZ: Thank you, your Honor, and good morning.

20 Your Honor, Mr. Greenwood has pled guilty to a very 21 serious fraud before this court. Very shortly after the guilty 22 plea, he entered into a cooperation agreement with the U.S.
23 Attorney's Office and has cooperated with them since that time 24 in 2009. The Second Circuit in the Douglas case, which we 25 mention in our memorandum, states that cooperation with the

Ec31gres

1 government is significant in terms of expressing defendant's
2 remorse and also significant in terms of the benefit to society
3 that it provides to law enforcement.

4 Your Honor, Mr. Greenwood has, as your Honor knows and 5 has read, 82 letters that have been submitted on his behalf.
6 Quite frankly, it's more letters than I've ever had submitted 7 to a court for sentencing.

8 THE COURT: But not more than I have had.

9 MR. HAFETZ: Probably not, your Honor. And the 10 letters are extremely important in terms of really telling the 11 story of Mr. Greenwood's life. As Judge Rakoff has stated in 12 the Adelson case, "Surely if ever a man is to receive credit 13 for the good he has done and his immediate misconduct assessed 14 in the context of his overall life hitherto, it should be at 15 the moment of the sentencing when his future hangs in the 16 balance." The letters indeed express Mr. Greenwood's good 17 deeds, your Honor, and when we say good deeds, I mean good 18 deeds are really the manifestation of really I believe core 19 values of Mr. Greenwood, which is that he is innately a person 20 who, throughout his life, prior to the fraud, during the fraud, 21 after the fraud, has really sought to help many people. I 22 think he has an innate compassion to help others. As his wife
23 Robin states -- she's here in the court today, and she states 24 in her letter to the court, "Paul is always the first person to 25 offer his time and support to almost anyone who needs his

Ec31gres

1 help."

2 I would like to talk briefly about the letters, your 3 Honor, because I think they are so important in terms of 4 filling out the picture of the whole man who will be sentenced 5 by your Honor today.

6 Many of the letters, your Honor, talk about the good
7 deeds that Mr. Greenwood has done prior to the fraudulent 8 conduct. The fraudulent conduct began in the latter part of 9 the 1990s. Many of the letters talk about what Mr. Greenwood 10 did for people well before the fraud period. It wasn't because 11 he was enabled by the fraud to help people that he became a 12 good person who was interested in helping people, but I 13 believe --

14 THE COURT: Well, he certainly didn't help his 15 investors.

16 MR. HAFETZ: Excuse me?

17 THE COURT: He certainly did not help his investors.

18 MR. HAFETZ: He did not, your Honor, and he's 19 acknowledged that and he's pled guilty and takes full 20 responsibility for that, but in terms of filling out the 21 picture of the kind of person he is, which is what Section 3553 22 looks to in terms of getting a picture of the history and 23 characteristics of the individual, they show that really, 24 throughout his life, Mr. Greenwood has been someone who has 25 really looked to do exceptional things for people. The letters

Ec31gres

1 from the persons who Mr. Greenwood put through college and paid
2 for their tuition -- I'm talking now prior to the fraud --
3 there's a letter of Alice Debany, a letter from George 4 Zabrecky, there's a letter from Seth Hostetter. Some of these 5 people are present, amongst the many friends and family who are 6 in court today. And Alice Debany, in her letter -- and again, 7 this is well before the fraud period -- talks about, "I met 8 Paul Greenwood in 1986 when I was 17." She had some troubles 9 at the time. She said. "I somehow knew that Paul was the 10 right person to confide in. He was fatherly in his concern and 11 he gave excellent advice as to how to go about getting out of 12 my situation. He also had an open door to his stable to 13 provide me with a job as soon as I needed one. He offered me a 14 life-changing proposal. If I worked for him, he wanted me to 15 go to university and he would pay for all my tuition. I went 16 to New York University for five years at night while working 17 full time for him. He continued to be like a father to me. He 18 read all of my papers. He gave me all kinds of advice about 19 life and was supportive of every venture I took on."

20 The other letter writers in that period whose tuition 21 he paid for talk about the life-changing experience that he 22 gave to them and but for Mr. Greenwood, they would never have 23 had the opportunity.

24 The letter writers, prior to the fraud period, talk 25 about Mr. Greenwood extending himself to people who had medical

Ec31gres

1 problems and serious health problems. There's a letter from a 2 letter writer. One of the letter writers, Charlie Weaver, was 3 suffering from a serious accident. It was Mr. Greenwood at 4 that time who came to his aid, paid for his medical care, and 5 really got him back to the point where he was no longer 6 paralyzed with his aid.

7           There are people in the prefraud period who talk about 8 Mr. Greenwood giving them money, helping them out to start 9 their businesses. Many of these people, by the way, your 10 Honor, are persons who Mr. Greenwood would look to help 11 throughout his life. They were disadvantaged people, some 12 physically disadvantaged, some mentally disadvantaged, blue 13 collar people, people who had fallen on hard times, and really 14 it's a testament to his character and his nature that these are 15 people that he would look to help and did. He would 16 unstintingly give his help to anyone who sought it and even 17 those who didn't seek it.

18           There's a letter from a woman who actually sits in the 19 court today with the wonderful name of Wondrous Jones, and she 20 writes -- again, this is all in the prefraud period -- she had 21 a disability of having polio as a young child and her lifelong 22 dream as she grew up was to be able to develop into a horseback 23 rider, an equestrian, notwithstanding her disability. She 24 talks about how Mr. Greenwood came to her aid both financially
25 and also, because of just the generosity of his selfless

Ec31gres

1 nature, enabled her to actually compete in the Paralympics as a 2 horseback rider, which were for disabled people.

3 The letters I think are very strong. Here I'm really 4 just talking about the prefraud letters that really I think are 5 a testament to really the innate nature of Mr. Greenwood.
6 Notwithstanding that he is a criminal and has committed serious 7 fraud, in the full scale and dimension of the human being that 8 gets sentenced by the court, I believe that these are extremely 9 important.

10 The letter writers go on during the next decades to 11 talk about Mr. Greenwood continuing to help people and do many 12 good deeds. Some of the letter writers talk about financial 13 assistance. He enabled people to go to college continually 14 because of his financial assistance. And some are not in the 15 nature of financial assistance. They're just in the nature of 16 Paul Greenwood coming to help people.

17 There's a letter from an individual who had a serious 18 health condition. Mr. Greenwood basically took over becoming 19 their advocate with the insurance company; someone who was 20 suffering, actually, from cancer. Mr. Greenwood was able to 21 get them full treatment because of the time and concern that he 22 spent with them.

23 There are many letter writers, both before and after 24 the fraud period, who talk about Mr. Greenwood giving them 25 jobs. There are people who had immigration problems. Edgar

Ec31gres

1 Bustamante talked about, in the prefraud period, how 2 Mr. Greenwood brought his family up from Venezuela to help hire 3 an immigration lawyer, help support him for a visa and,
4 actually, when they had no housing, when the family got here,
5 he provided housing for them. This is in the prefraud period.
6 Later he went on to pay for college for the daughter Corina,
7 after they were settled here.

8           There's a letter from Rosemarie DeAngelis, a woman who 9 lived nearby the property that Mr. Greenwood lived on, who 10 writes about when she had a serious environmental issue in her 11 home, it was a toxic environment, she had to move out, 12 Mr. Greenwood offered immediately to have her and her family 13 come live with him in his house and ultimately gave her 14 housing, put her up somewhere else at her choice for a period 15 of time. And again, he continued helping with those who had 16 immigration problems. It wasn't just money. It was a question 17 of time, it was a question of compassion for them, it was a 18 question of listening to them, and a question really of him
19 devoting himself out of compassion to the problems that people 20 had.

21           There are a number of letters, huge number, your 22 Honor, who I believe really are really a testament to I think 23 what are core and innate values of Paul Greenwood as a human 24 being who has looked throughout his life to help individuals I
25 think in an extremely significant and meaningful way and I

Ec31gres

1 believe they are significant at this time, as Adelson said, at 2 this time when the good deeds become part of the perspective as 3 well as the wrongful conduct that the individual is going to be 4 sentenced on, and it could be no other way, because that really 5 is what the Judeo-Christian system is about. I mean, this is 6 judgment day and we judge a man by all his deeds, wrongful and 7 good, and on the good side of the ledger, they are extremely 8 powerful for Mr. Greenwood.

9           Unfortunately, your Honor, part of the history and 10 characteristics of Mr. Greenwood involve some family issues, 11 and I believe that they are a proper factor with regard to the 12 sentencing. He and his wife Robin have two adopted daughters, 13 and since childhood the daughters, particularly the oldest one, 14 now a teenager, have suffered some serious emotional and 15 psychological problems, suffering throughout really much of her 16 growing up period really uncontrollable rages, going into fits 17 and destroying things, threatening to throw herself out of 18 windows, and cars, and it's a sad situation. Throughout this 19 Mr. Greenwood has been probably the most stabilizing influence 20 in their life. As his wife Robin sadly writes in her letter to 21 the court, a long jail sentence, the damaging effect of it, 22 they fear, would really cause the daughter Karen, as she puts 23 it, to slide back into a dark and awful place, to use her 24 words. The younger daughter Laura, although not suffering as 25 severely as Karen, has also suffered with her own emotional

Ec31gres

1 problems. Throughout it, Mr. Greenwood has been a mainstay and 2 a stabilizing influence in the road to gaining a place where 3 they would have mental health.

4 Your Honor, as the court knows, the government has 5 written a 5K1 cooperation letter in this case, and we, in our 6 own memorandum, also discuss Mr. Greenwood's cooperation. I 7 believe it's fair to say that the cooperation with the 8 government was timely, prompt, came almost immediately after 9 the arrest, longstanding, it's continued for five years, it has 10 been truthful -- it's not one of these situations where a 11 cooperator wavered and was giving untruthful testimony. The 12 government found him to be truthful I believe throughout. And 13 it was substantial. As the government describes it in their 14 letter, they state, "Without doubt, Greenwood provided 15 substantial assistance. Had Walsh, the co-defendant, gone to 16 trial, Greenwood's testimony against him would have been 17 critical and devastating. During each proffer session 18 Greenwood provided clear and credible evidence that was 19 thoroughly corroborated. Based on those proffer sessions, the 20 government made the determination that Greenwood would present
21 powerful evidence at trial against his business partner, Walsh.
22 Greenwood would have been the only government witness at trial
23 who could have provided a detailed and comprehensive narrative 24 of the multiyear fraud and Walsh's critical and knowing role in 25 it. Furthermore, Greenwood assisted the government

Ec31gres

1 substantially in its preparation for the pretrial Monsanto
2 hearing before this court." So though Greenwood did not 3 testify, he helped prepare the government and the FBI agent for 4 the hearing. But for Greenwood's cooperation and candor during 5 these pretrial/prehearing preparation sessions, the government
6 would not have been able to put on the thorough and convincing
7 evidence it did before this court. Since February 2009, 8 Greenwood aided the government and the receiver in 9 investigating the finances of WG Trading and WG Investors and 10 in marshaling the assets that had been and will be available 11 for victims. In connection with the lengthy investigation by 12 the receiver, Greenwood made available information to the 13 receiver which to date has permitted the receiver to recover 14 close to 90 percent of the investors' claims, or about 15 $900 million.

16 The aid of Greenwood I believe was a substantial 17 factor in obtaining and having the co-defendant in this case, 18 Walsh, go to trial. So I believe his cooperation is extremely 19 strong here and it is, I submit, your Honor, a highly 20 significant factor. I note the recommendation in the 21 presentence report by the probation office after they received 22 the cooperation information regarding Mr. Greenwood of a 23 five-year prison sentence. Also the cooperation, as noted in 24 the government's letter and in the sentencing memo prepared by 25 us, has also substantially assisted the receiver appointed by

Ec31gres

1 the court with regard to the recovery of the assets, the 2 business and personal assets.

3 Finally, your Honor, I would note that Mr. Greenwood
4 has -- and I believe the caselaw recognizes this also as a 5 significant factor with regard to sentencing -- in postarrest, 6 in addition to cooperating with the government and the 7 receiver, he has done extensive volunteer work, since 2009 8 right up to the present time. First, in New York, where he and 9 his family lived at the time, he spent substantial time using 10 his skills in tutoring programs for Veterans Hospital, and 11 later in North Carolina, where he moved with his wife in 2011
12 and lives at present, in tutoring programs there. The tutoring 13 programs in the VA Hospital are for veterans, obviously, and 14 often they were people who had some mental disability. The 15 tutoring also involved, besides the VA, homeless people, 16 disadvantaged people, disabled people, and Mr. Greenwood helped 17 them, many of them obtain GEDs, the equivalent of a high school 18 degree, so they could go on and get a further education or join 19 the workforce. In North Carolina he has done the same thing 20 with tutoring there, and he has enabled people there, also 21 persons who had been disadvantaged, to be able to receive an 22 education that enabled them to go further for higher education 23 and for jobs. His work with these people, your Honor, as the 24 letters note, was not just limited to the tutoring, as good a 25 thing as that was, where he completely devoted himself, but he

Ec31gres

1 often found himself involving himself in their lives to the 2 extent of driving them to doctor's appointments and being 3 involved in terms of giving advice in their lives and really in 4 a way that personally enabled them to advance and help 5 themselves beyond just the tutoring, which was significant in 6 their lives. The head of the tutoring program in North 7 Carolina, Beth Daniels, writes that "Mr. Greenwood has 8 repeatedly gone out of his way to assure that his students 9 achieve their desired goals. As a direct result of his 10 efforts, seven adults in the program now have immeasurably 11 better lives than they did prior to staying under his tutelage.
12 These adults, together with the staff members at the volunteer 13 agency, are keenly aware of the positive impact Paul had within 14 his community." The total hours that he has spent on the 15 volunteer program since 2009 add up to approximately 3,000 16 hours just from the tutoring and the work, not counting the 17 outside help he has given these people. That would be the 18 equivalent of two full years of work in the last five that he 19 has spent with the disadvantaged people. I submit that he has 20 done this out of the belief that this is the right thing to do, 21 it's a belief of the need for contrition, remorse, and 22 understanding of the guilt, for the time that he has committed 23 and his innate desire to help people, be there for them, and to 24 better their lives.

25 Your Honor, considering the entire facts, the

Ec31gres

1 seriousness of the crime, as your Honor has pointed out, and in 2 addition to the other factors that the sentencing statute says 3 must be taken into consideration, namely, the history and 4 characteristics of the individual, and weighing those all 5 together and taking into account the enormous good that 6 Mr. Greenwood has done throughout his life really because of 7 his innate desire to want to do those and to help people, your 8 Honor, I would respectfully request that the court sentence 9 Mr. Greenwood in accord with the recommendation made by the 10 pretrial services agency, office, of five years in prison.
11 Thank you, your Honor.

12 I think Mr. Greenwood would like to address the court 13 briefly.

14 THE COURT: Very well.

15 THE DEFENDANT: Thank you. I'd like to apologize to 16 the court for my serious criminal conduct. I stand before the 17 court today accepting full responsibility for my actions. I've 18 lied, I've cheated, and I have stolen. Words cannot express my 19 sorrow and remorse for what I've done.

20 Also, I would like to apologize to those of you who 21 put their trust in me, to those of you who considered me a 22 friend, and to those of you who loved me, especially my wife 23 Robin, our two daughters, my brother and sister, my relatives, 24 and my in-laws. I am truly sorry for the grief and the 25 heartache that my actions have caused you.

Ec31gres

1 Thank you.

2 THE COURT: Very well. I have read all of the 3 submissions, and I don't have to tell you, because you are an 4 intelligent man, how much damage you did do before you became 5 sorry about it. I have given you great credit for cooperation, 6 but that was also in part self-protective. It was not entirely 7 charitable. There are a number of people today who lost many 8 thousands of dollars as a result of your fraud, and you had no 9 difficulty for a long period of time living much better than 10 the people who invested their money through you in the hopes 11 that what you were telling them was accurate. And the loss of 12 that money was very devastating for many of them. I would like 13 to think that part of the reason you ultimately cooperated was 14 because you recognized that yourself.

15 But at this time I sentence you to ten years in 16 prison, which is on all of the counts taken together, really, 17 and some of them are shorter periods than others because of the 18 statutory provision. On Count One, the sentence is five years.
19 On Count Two, Four, and Five, ten years. On Three and Six, ten 20 years, to run concurrently with Counts Two, Four, and Five, and 21 concurrently with Count One.

22 I am required to also impose a period after you're 23 released from prison of three years of supervised release on 24 all counts, concurrently.

25 Restitution, I take it the government will submit the

Ec31gres

1 amount to me.

2 MR. NAFTALIS: That's correct, your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Which I will include, because there's no 4 question that you should restore a lot of money to a lot of 5 people. And the restitution will be determined and included in 6 the final judgment.

7 There is also a special assessment of $100 per count, 8 which amounts to $600 in this case. I take it you are able to 9 pay that promptly, the $600.

10 THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

11 THE COURT: Very well. I hope, Mr. Greenwood, that 12 you really do feel the remorse and that you will be thinking 13 about all of this very carefully while you are serving prison
14 time, that you will come out of prison recognizing that you 15 really do not want to live this kind of life again and that you 16 do not want to do the kind of things that you have previously 17 done, largely because you really wanted to have a lot of money.
18 There's no other reason for the kind of fraud that you engaged 19 in, which cheated other people out of a lot of money. I hope 20 you will think about that carefully while you are in prison and 21 that you will really resolve to change your outlook on life and 22 on other people. And if you do spend your time in prison doing 23 that, I wish you good luck.

24 Is there anything further? I assume the government 25 has nothing to add.

Ec31gres

1 MR. NAFTALIS: Your Honor, I assume that your Honor, 2 in fashioning the sentence, has granted the government's motion
3 to sentence --

4 THE COURT: I granted your 5K1. I not only granted
5 it, I performed it.

6 MR. NAFTALIS: And I think your Honor has already 7 signed the consent order of forfeiture, but just if you could 8 announce it, in addition to advising the defendant of his right 9 of appeal and the conditions of supervised release.

10 THE COURT: He did not waive his right of appeal in 11 his plea?

12 MR. NAFTALIS: No, your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Until recently you required that in your 14 pleas.

15 MR. NAFTALIS: This is a cooperator sentencing, your 16 Honor.

17 THE COURT: Well, even cooperators have been required
18 to waive their appeal rights.

19 MR. NAFTALIS: In this agreement, your Honor, the 20 defendant has not waived his right.

21 THE COURT: Very well. All right. What I am being 22 reminded, Mr. Greenwood, is that you have ten days in which to 23 decide whether you want to appeal my sentence to the Court of 24 Appeals, which you are entitled to do, and you should discuss 25 with your lawyer whether you wish to do that. You should

Ec31gres

1 discuss it with him promptly so that if you want to file an 2 appeal, he can do that for you within the time allotted.

3 MR. HAFETZ: Your Honor, if I may, two things. I
4 would ask if your Honor --

5 THE COURT: I will give you the privilege of voluntary 6 surrender.

7 MR. HAFETZ: Yes. Can we make that in 60 days, your 8 Honor? I don't think the government --

9 THE COURT: It's longer than that. It takes longer, 10 generally.

11 MR. HAFETZ: Well, should they make the decision 12 sooner, I would ask that it be at least 60 days, your Honor, so 13 he can organize his affairs and --

14 THE COURT: Very well. What I will do is set a 15 deadline. I will give you the privilege of surrendering to the 16 institution that the Bureau of Prisons assigns you to by 17 February 9, at 2:00 in the afternoon.

18 MR. HAFETZ: Your Honor, I have one other request.
19 The request is, would your Honor recommend to the Bureau of 20 Prisons that Mr. Greenwood serve his sentence at the satellite 21 camp at FCI Butner, North Carolina. His family lives in 22 North Carolina and --

23 THE COURT: I will recommend that he be designated to 24 an institution close to where his family lives, which is what 25 you're asking.

Ec31gres

1 MR. HAFETZ: Well, there are different levels of 2 institutions.

3 THE COURT: I do not choose the level. That's 4 something the Bureau of Prisons does.

5 MR. HAFETZ: I know the ultimate decision is with the 6 Bureau of Prisons, your Honor, but --

7 THE COURT: I know that they try to place everybody
8 close to their families for many reasons, but I do not normally 9 choose the designation, or recommend a designation because I 10 don't know enough about the facilities.

11 What city in North Carolina are we talking about?

12 MR. HAFETZ: It's in Butner, your Honor, 13 North Carolina, which I believe is not too far from where his 14 family lives. He is eligible for the camp facility.

15 THE COURT: I don't know anything about that. The 16 Bureau of Prisons has established many policies about placement
17 of prisoners, and I do not know enough about the facilities 18 involved to choose among them. I would have to do more 19 research to do that.

20 MR. HAFETZ: I'm sorry, your Honor?

21 THE COURT: I would have to do more research to decide 22 whether that is appropriate.

23 MR. NAFTALIS: Your Honor, just in terms of the 24 housekeeping, if you could orally pronounce the forfeiture and 25 the terms of supervised release.

1           THE COURT: Very well. I have signed a preliminary 2 order of forfeiture, which is a consent order. It sets out 3 forfeiture that has been agreed to. And I believe you all have 4 copies of that document.

5           MR. NAFTALIS: Yes, your Honor. That's sufficient.
6 And if your Honor is going to just follow the PSR on the 7 standard and/or special conditions --

8           THE COURT: I will follow the standard and the special 9 conditions. I will include those, the special and standard 10 conditions for supervised release.

11          MR. NAFTALIS: Thank you, your Honor.

12          THE COURT: Very well. Is there anything further?

13          MR. NAFTALIS: Not from the government.

14          MR. HAFETZ: No, your Honor.

15          THE COURT: Very well. Then you are all excused.
